

SITUATIONAL COLLABORATIVE LEADERSHIP

EQUINE SESSION

CTI

COURSE OVERVIEW

In this session, with the help of some unique teaching assistants, horses, you will gain important insights about what it takes to motivate, influence, and lead people. Horses are highly sensitive and respond primarily to body language and emotional tone. They provide honest, immediate feedback about leadership tendencies and style.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- Describe how to lead others with earned trust, rather than formal authority
- Align your body language and demeanor to support, rather than undermine, your intended message and impact
- Enhance awareness of your communication strengths and challenge areas
- Describe how to create greater synergy and alignment when collaborating and leading with others

LEARN MORE

Scan the QR code to view a slide show of photos from the AHS Physician Leader Fellowship Collaborative Leadership session

“ Comparing what I learned over several years from people who told me they were really smart to what I learned from horses in several hours, I realized the horses taught me more. ”

*-Physician graduate of AHS
Physician Leader Fellowship*